

Do These Kill Pets? Are They Safe?

EUROPEAN MEDICINES AGENCY: Official numbers of REPORTED side effects and deaths of animals after administration of tick/flea/heartworm products
WORLDWIDE (January 2024)

Only about 1% of the serious side effects with animal medications are actually reported.

- FDA Warning: "Can cause uncontrollable seizures"
- Most vets will deny connection between these products and your pet's illness or death
- Most cases are never reported to the governing agencies; read footnotes if you wish to see how the data was obtained

Some dogs, especially those with the MDR1 gene mutation (found in breeds like Border Collies, Australian Shepherds, and Whippets), are more susceptible to these side effects, as they cannot tolerate certain medications.
